The farmer actually pays a premium for bad roads. He pays it in time expended in getting to market; in the value of drafting animals and the food they eat and in the extra hands for their care and handling; in increased number of vehicles and wear and tear on them, and in the decreased product of land that has less attention and care. If the country had a system of smooth and hard highways it would blossom like a rose and prosperity would follow in the wake.

"I see by our home paper." How frequently the phrase comes to the lips. For all local news people turn naturally to their home newspaper. Just as instinctively they turn to the same source when they want to buy goods. Reading the newspaper, and relying on the newspaper is a habit. It applies almost as much to the reading of the newspaper advertisement as it does to the "news."
